+addition

Addition was founded with the express goal of bringing spicy and savory flavors to beverages everywhere - out of your spice rack and into your drinks!

6
COUNT

ALLSPICE

Allspice gets its name from its complex and varied flavors, which are sometimes described as a mix of cinnamon, clove and nutmeg. It's often used in Caribbean cooking, in curries, and even in traditional Mexican mole. Allspice blends beautifully in drinks that include cola, in apple cider, or in a White (or Black) Russian.

6
COUNT

BLACK PEPPER

It is almost disorienting to taste this familiar flavor of Black Pepper in liquid form! Black pepper is surprisingly spicy, and as versatile in drinks as it is on food. It's a great addition to a Bloody Mary, a dirty Martini, or even a ribeye fresh off the grill.

6
COUNT

CARDAMOM

Called the Queen of Spices, Cardamom has a complex flavor profile that pairs equally well with both sweet and savory. Try Cardamom Cocktail Spice in citrus drinks, in a rum and cola or even mixed in with your vanilla ice cream. A little bit of Cardamom goes a long way!

6
COUNT

CHIPOTLE

The strong smoky, savory and spicy elements of Chipotle pair well with bold liquors like bourbon, rye, aged rum and mezcal. You can even add it to marinades before you BBQ – the spicy, smoky flavors are especially great with chicken.

6
COUNT

CINNAMON

A staple of every spice rack, Cinnamon is delicious in so many drinks. Try it in hard ciders, whiskey cocktails, or in a rum and cola. You can even add a few drops straight into a can of cola itself! It also pairs beautifully with clove.

6

CLOVE

The distinctive yet familiar flavor of Clove is appreciated in foods all over the world, and it works just as beautifully in a wide variety of delicious drinks! Try it in a rum and cola, in Tiki drinks of any variety, or paired with other spices like cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg, star anise or even pink pepper to create a complex, aromatic whiskey cocktail.

6
COUNT

CUBEB

Cubeb Pepper might look similar to black pepper, but it's more complex and aromatic. The flavor can be described as a combination of black pepper and allspice, and the smell is beautifully perfumy and rich. Cubeb adds an interesting botanical element to gin drinks, Old Fashioneds, or as a more complex substitute for black pepper.

BITTERS

6

CUMIN

The distinctive flavor of Cumin is most familiar in tacos and chili, but it's also delicious in an assortment of drinks. Try it in whiskey-based cocktails, in drinks that use orange juice as a mixer, or simply add a few drops to a glass of neat rye!

6
COUNT

CURRY

Curry is a mix of many savory herbs and spices used most famously in South Asian food. Addition's take on Curry goes best with big, powerful whiskeys. Try adding four or five blasts to a scotch and soda – the smoky, peaty richness of the scotch is enhanced by the deep savory complexity in Curry Cocktail Spice!

6

FENUGREEK

Fenugreek is a prominent spice in many world cuisines, including Iranian, Ethiopian, and Indian. It has a toasty, caramel-like smell and a hearty, rich flavor. The flavor of fenugreek stands up well in rich, dark liquors like rye or bourbon, and can add complexity and depth to a classic scotch and soda.

6
COUNT

FILTHY DIRTY

At Addition, we love our dirty martinis. And we don't mean just a little bit dirty – no, we want that martini Filthy Dirty! The blend of herbs and spices in our Filthy Dirty Cocktail Spice is designed specifically to complement and enhance the briny goodness of a standard Dirty. Add three or four blasts to your shaker and enjoy!

GARLIC

Familiar, aromatic and very potent, the hearty flavor of Garlic packs a punch! It brings new levels of complexity and depth to classic drinks like Bloody Marys, Dirty Martinis, and endless other savory beverages.

HABANERO

Habanero is one of the hottest and most widely loved chili peppers. It has a light pepper flavor combined with an intense, slow-building heat. Habanero is a great choice to add pure heat to a cocktail without greatly changing the flavor profile. Try it in Margaritas, neat whiskey, fruity vodka drinks, cider, and even white wine.

HORSERADISH

Horseradish can add a savory bite to all kinds of beverages. It's a great addition to a dirty martini, it goes surprisingly well with mixed-fruit drinks and, of course, it's absolutely killer in a Bloody Mary!

JALAPENO

Probably the most famous of all chili peppers, Jalapeño has moderate heat and a fresh, familiar chili flavor that goes as well in drinks as it does in food. Tequila drinks are an obvious pairing for Jalapeño (it's fantastic in a Margarita!) and it also pairs perfectly with citrus of all kinds.

6
COUNT

LONG PEPPER

Long Pepper is rare in European and North American cooking these days, which is a shame because it's an amazing spice! It starts out sweet, with some evergreen notes, and then quickly transitions into a dramatically spicy peppercorn buzz. This combo of sweet and spicy makes it a welcome addition to Old Fashioneds, Manhattans and tequila drinks.

6
COUNT

PINK PEPPER

More closely related to mangoes and cashews than to true peppercorns, Pink Pepper still has a familiar peppery heat combined with fragrant floral characteristics and hint of a citrusy bite. At Addition, we've found it to be versatile and fantastic; Pink Pepper is a great addition to most gin and vodka classics, a Sazerac, or a Last Word.

6
COUNT

PIRI-PIRI

Approach with great caution! Piri-Piri (aka Bird's Eye Pepper) is HOT! It's also delicious, with rich, hearty chili pepper flavor. Try adding a few drops into a whiskey ginger, a scotch and soda, or straight into a glass of bourbon.

6
COUNT

ROSEMARY

Add the fresh, aromatic complexity of Rosemary to all kinds of drinks. This is a perfect flavor to dress up gin drinks (beautiful in a G&T!), Margaritas, Lemon Drops, or even a glass of sparkling water!

6

SAGE

The subtle yet unmistakable flavor and aroma of Sage brings new interest to many traditional cocktails. Try adding it to a classic like a Manhattan or an Old Fashioned, or combine it with spicy Jalapeño or Habanero to make a stand-out margarita!

6
COUNT

STAR ANISE

Unmistakable as the primary flavor in black licorice and many herbal liqueurs, Star Anise adds a fragrant complexity that complements sweet, fruity drinks as well as most brown spirits. Try it in a Mimosa or an Irish Coffee, or add some to whipped cream to top off your favorite desserts!

6
COUNT

SZECHUAN PEPPER

The reality-warping Szechuan Pepper brings amazing floral and citrus notes along with heat that's different from other peppers and chilies; Szechuan peppers will play tricks on your mouth with the tactile, prickly sensations they impart. Add Szechuan to a G&T, a Manhattan, or try it as a substitute for aromatic bitters. One of our favorites at Addition!

6
COUNT

TARRAGON

Tarragon's slightly minty licorice flavor is every bit as good in drinks as it is in fine French cuisine. Try Tarragon in a whiskey ginger along with something spicy like Thai Green Chili. It's also great in most gin drinks and in sparkling water.

6
COUNT

THAI GREEN CHILI

A favorite at Addition! Thai Green Chili has a fresh, bright, green flavor and its heat is serious – a few blasts of this spice go a long way. A versatile flavor, but works especially well in margaritas and citrus-heavy cocktails.

6
COUNT

THYME

The dry, fresh flavors of Thyme go great in many vodka and gin drinks! Dress up a vodka tonic, add herbal complexity to any gimlet or pair it with Oregano to make a martini that drinks beautifully with Italian food.

6
COUNT

TUMERIC

Turmeric root looks like a cross between ginger and a carrot, but its complex floral flavor and ultra-intense yellow color are familiar to lovers of yellow curry everywhere. Turmeric's mild earthiness and subtle heat add wonderful, layered aromatics to a wide variety of cocktails – try it in virtually any gin drink, in a classic Manhattan or even in neat tequila.

AROMATIC BITTERS

Jack Rudy Aromatic Bitters are a standard, approachable, and highly versatile aromatic bitters for any cocktail enthusiast. We formulated these bitters in collaboration with Cocktail Punk in Boulder, Colorado.

With burnt cane sugar syrup as a base, we built in complex and nuanced notes of citrus, winter spices, and bittering agents to create a product with many uses.

Use it to revisit your favorite classic cocktails like the Manhattan and the Old Fashioned. To cure a vicious hangover, simply add several generous drops to soda water or ginger ale and drink up.

LAVENDER BITTERS

We began developing these Lavender Bitters as an accompaniment to our Sweet Tea Syrup, and as lighter alternative to our robust Aromatic Bitters. Working with our friends at Cocktail Punk in Colorado, we had access to gorgeous domestic lavender that was the perfect component to our foray into a more aromatic bitters expression.

If our original bitters are rich, potent and classic, these bitters are elegant, subdued and modern; they are a fresh take on a classic ingredient, and will be right at home with Vodka or Tequila, and bring a freshness to our traditional Gin & Tonic.

THE GENERAL'S HOT SAUCE

A great sauce for the greater good. The General's Hot Sauce is on a mission for making the best American made hot sauce.

12

DANGER CLOSE

The General's newest flavor, Danger Close is a magical blend of red Cayenne and orange Habanero peppers. We think it's the perfect sauce for making buffalo wings - as it packs a strong Cayenne flavor, but also brings a solid backdoor kicker of Habanero heat. More heat than our best-seller, DEAD RED, but it won't melt your brain like a heavy dose of SHOCK & AWE.

12
COUNT

DEAD RED

Our classic signature product. Made from Louisiana-grown, fully ripe red Cayenne peppers handpicked at exactly the right time, and then salted down and aged until the mash is perfect for conversion and bottling. An all-natural product that is almost 90% Cayenne peppers, this sauce packs a truly authentic, fresh Cayenne flavor that will be very different when compared to other sauces that typically have a stronger concentration of vinegar.

12
COUNT

MAYPLE MAYHEM

This all-natural, habanero-infused maple syrup, the perfect balance of sweet and heat, is made from the highest quality ingredients. Vermont's maple trees provide the sweet, and our lightly salted, sun-dried ground Habanero pepper mach provides the heat. There are no preservatives, chemicals, or thickeners of any kind. Use your imagination with MAYPLE MAYHEM: maple glazed salmon, chicken and waffles, grilled brussels sprouts, or a caramelized pork chop; the possibilities are endless. Should be refrigerated after opening.

12
COUNT

GRUNT GREEN

Discovered almost by accident that green cayenne peppers picked just before they turn red can bring a truly unique, tangy, earthy flavor; still carries the same fresh flavor as Dead Red, and that same rich concentration of all-natural cayenne peppers. Much of the harvesting of the green peppers happens at the end of a growing season, when these mature, perfectly balanced peppers just decide to stay green; as such, we usually age these peppers a bit longer.

12
COUNT

SHOCK & AWE

Not for the faint of heart, this sauce was a special request from our beloved heat freak fans that we have since opened up to the rest of the universe. Made with almost 90% Louisiana-grown orange Habaneros (we liked that flavor the best from all our testing), you'll get a unique punch of deep, powerful, sustained heat that is offset by a sweet aroma and taste. Many of our fans will use this sauce to "spike" DEAD RED when making wings, it checks in (1-10) around an 8.5-9, according to most folks. So as not to distract from that sweet-heat combination, we add a touch less salt so that the true flavor of the habanero pepper really pops in the sauce. You can set your watch by the Habanero pepper-it delivers a consistent heat and flavor even in varying conditions.

6

HOOAH JALAPENO

HOOAH Jalapeño is carefully blended from a precisely aged, American-grown peppers. HOOAH Jalapeño carries a mild-medium heat profile, and is a versatile flavor that can be used anywhere. We love it on tacos, burritos, enchiladas, and (our favorite) scrambled eggs. If you want rich, pepper flavor with just a casual hint of heat, you found the right product.

REAPER ACTUAL

Introducing The General's hottest sauce yet, Reaper Actual. With "Actual" meaning that the actual owner of the call sign is on the radio, this blend combines fiery Carolina Reapers, rich red cayennes and smoky chipotle powder to live up to its name. Just like the rest of The General's hot sauces, Reaper Actual is 86% peppers and carries an equally intense pepper flavor that balances out its extreme spice level.

When updating the cocktail olive, we celebrated our affinity for a classic Martini: a nice splash of Dry Vermouth, and the punch of juniper & coriander that we associate with a great Dry Gin. SMALL BATCH GRENADINE

Small Batch Grenadine is Jack Rudy Cocktail's second product, and after a year of finalizing, it is no less a labor of love.

They start with pomegranate juice from a small family farm in Madera, CA; they juice their fruit whole in a patented press that renders a matchless, robust pomegranate juice. To that cane sugar and orange flower water is added. Enough heat is then applied to dissolve the sugar while still maintaining the inherent zip of the fresh juice.

Use it to create new cocktails, or to revisit classic drinks like a Ward 8, Jack Rose, El Presidente, or Monkey Gland.

DEMERARA SYRUP

The gorgeous amber color of our Demerara Syrup is the first thing you'll notice, a departure from the clear simple syrups so prevalent behind the bar. On its own, the warm flavor has a nuanced roundness, leaving subtle notes of toffee and caramel on the palate. But rather than overtaking the flavors of the other ingredients, our Demerara Syrup was born to elevate them. Use it in place of any syrup or sugar for your craft cocktails, coffees or desserts.

DEATH & CO. COFFEE SYRUP

Formulated in conjunction with NYC's iconic cocktail bar, Death & Co. Working closely with their team, Jack Rudy developed a versatile, balanced coffee syrup for utilization across home and bar.

It starts with cold brew from California's beloved Captain + Stoker, a roaster and shop based in Monterey, CA. A blend of natural Ethiopian and Brazilian beans lends tasting notes of stone fruit, baker's chocolate and apricot. Made with real cane sugar, the syrup is the ideal base for the best Espresso Martini or coffee cocktail. The concentrated formula is also developed for use in frozen drink applications, in the kitchen, drizzled over (or blended into) ice cream and non-alcoholic beverages, or as a sweetener for your morning coffee.

ELDERFLOWER TONIC

Originally crafted as a web-only exclusive, our Elderflower Tonic is an updated tonic formula with more body and a bold finish that pairs well with a number of richer spirits: tequila, bourbon and rum, while still acting a classic companion to the finer gins of the world.

Because elderberry grows wild throughout Kentucky, we thought it a natural compliment to our line of mixers. We add organic dried elderflowers to our original recipe, and increased the amount of quinine to bring balance to the final product.

The Elderflower Tonic has a profile that allows G&T drinking deep into the winter months, and shows versatility in a number of different applications.

CLASSIC TONIC SYRUP

At Jack Rudy Cocktail Co., they believe they've managed to create the closest possible thing to a perfect Gin & Tonic.

Their Small Batch Tonic is essentially a quinine concentrate. It's designed to pair with your favorite Gin or Vodka, and is then stretched with soda water to make a bright, light, refreshing highball.

With a backbone of quinine, culled from the Cinchona Tree, a delicate mix of botanicals has been added, and then sweetened with real cane sugar; the final product is a complex mixture that introduces a fine bitterness to any cocktail, and a great pairing with the botanicals of the finest Gins in the world.
